Our Mission & Vision

The mission of The Alliance of Minority Physicians (AMP) is to develop leaders in clinical, academic, and community medicine through active recruitment, professional development, mentorship, social opportunities, and community partnership geared towards faculty, housestaff, and medical students at Penn Medicine, Children's Hospital of Philadelphia (CHOP), and the Perelman School of Medicine (PSOM).

AMP's mission mirrors that of the University of Pennsylvania and its health partners Penn Medicine and CHOP, which is to enrich diversity as a means of fostering innovation and a community of physician leaders and problem solvers.

Strength Through Diversity

Working to strengthen the diversity of a community of outstanding healthcare leaders to promote and improve the health of the patients we serve.

Programmatic Impact

Professional Development

Promoting the professional enrichment of our housestaff and young faculty is an important part of the work of AMP. To this end, we host educational workshops and speakers' series to address critical topics such as career options and tracks in clinical, academic, and community medicine; mentorship; job search and interview strategies; and time management.

Mentorship

Mentorship relationships between medical trainees at varying levels are important to the success of those in medicine. AMP promotes the building of mentoring relationships between our medical students, residents, fellows, and attending faculty. AMP members enjoy not only community-building through our programs, but are able to build connections that offer guidance in their professional careers and personal aspirations.

Social and Networking Events

Building a connected and supportive community is an important focus for AMP. This is in part accomplished through opportunities for AMP trainees to meet together regularly at numerous events, such as:

- New Housestaff - Welcome Reception
- Networking Socials
- Friendsgiving
- Graduation Gala

Recruitment

In an effort to ensure that our hospital systems have the most diverse cohort of healthcare leaders, we actively recruit competitive applicants.

- Outreach to resident and fellowship applicants invited to interview.
- Participate in local, regional, and national conferences such as SNMA, LMSA, as well as residency fairs.
- Support programming for the Penn Visiting Clerkship Program.

Community Partnership

AMP works with local schools and community-based organizations in the greater Philadelphia area to improve health outcomes and eliminate health disparities. We provide support for a range of events including sports physicals and career exposure opportunities for youth, as well as engage with community partners through neighborhood health fairs and events. AMP works to ensure that the relationships formed and our program participation are sustainable and prioritize the needs and desires of our community.
